Is the language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?
Optional/General comments	The manuscript on Assessment of genetic divergence in rice (Oryza sativa L.) germplasm using D<sup>2</sup> analysis investigate the genetic divergence in 41 rice genotypes using 13 quantitative traits. The researchers used multiple analysis to estimate the diversity in the population using Mahalanobis D2 test, Tocher's test, dendrogram, GCV, and PCV. Though the study has its significance, the manuscript is immature for publication. It lacks a sound introduction, detailed methodology for reproducibility, and proper discussion of the results. I suggest the author to rewrite the manuscript by improving the introduction, methodology, results, and discussion. The methodology should include the source of genotype collection. The results and discussion should be modified to reflect the findings of the study supporting good discussion. I also suggest the authors to format the manuscript according to journal guidelines.
