PART 1: Comments

	Reviewer's comment	Author's Feedback (Please correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Please write a few sentences regarding the importance of this manuscript for the scientific community. A minimum of 3-4 sentences may be required for this part.	The objective of this work is to evaluate the capacity of activated carbon prepared from coconut shells to eliminate 2,4-dichlorophenoxyacetic acid. The characterization tests revealed that the specific surface area determined by the BET method is 570 m²/g consisting essentially of micropores. The chemical characteristics determined by the Boehm method indicate the acidic character of the carbon. The 2,4- dichlorophenoxyacetic acid adsorption tests revealed that the adsorption rate of 2,4- dichlorophenoxyacetic acid increases with increasing contact time, but decreases with increasing initial concentration. The adsorption capacity studied showed that the adsorption process of 2,4-D on activated carbon is controlled by pseudo-second order kinetics.
